

ABSTRACT

A cobalt chrome or austenitic stainless steel alloy orthopedic prosthetic implant. The implant comprises a core and a hardened surface layer. The surface layer is carburized in a process that prevents the formation of carbides on the surface layer.